

19 August 2021

Richard Cleave
Director
Coppercoat Pacific limited

Dear Richard

Re: Coppercoat Antifoul Coating

As discussed, I have had Coppercoat on my 18 metre Wavecrusher for 14 years and pretty much have not touched it during that time. It is still doing what it is meant to do, and I know from observation that I would never have got the performance or cost savings that I have had from Coppercoat, from any other antifoul coating.

We keep the boat at Whitianga Marina which has good tidal flush. If we have not used the boat for a while, it might accumulate a bit of slime (not crustaceans or weed), but after about twenty minutes of running at cruising speed (17 knots) all of the slime is gone.

I will be in touch when the time comes to replace the existing re-coat with Coppercoat.

Kind regards,

David Cochrane
Owner: 18 Metre Wavecrusher
Whitianga, New Zealand